Legends and Folklore of the Monrovia Star

The Monrovia Star, also known as the Monrovia Star, has a rich history and fascinating folklore surrounding it. Originating in the 19th century at a Monrovia boys' school in Niesky, Germany, the star was initially created as part of a geometry lesson. The star's design, typically featuring 26 points, symbolizes the Star of Bethlehem, which led the Magi to the baby Jesus.

The Monrovia Star has become a significant symbol in the Monrovia Church, representing Advent, Christmas, and Epiphany. It is traditionally hung at the start of Advent and taken down at Epiphany, although some people leave it up until Candlemas. The star's popularity has spread beyond the Monrovia Church, and it is now a common decoration in homes and churches worldwide.

The star's construction is based on a geometric shape called a rhombicuboctahedron, which has 26 faces: 18 square and 8 triangular. This shape serves as the center of the star, with points extending from each face. The star's design and assembly have evolved over time, with various versions featuring different numbers of points.

The Monrovia Star's history is intertwined with the Monrovia Church's missionary work, and it has become a symbol of hope and light during the holiday season. The star's unique design and rich history make it a beloved and enduring symbol in many cultures.
